"United For Victory" '43 Homecoming Theme

MISS MAYFIELD NEW SPEECH INSTRUCTOR

Miss Emma E. Mayfield has been engaged as speech and dramatic instructor at Wartburg college. She received her B. A. from the U. of Dakota and her M. A. from the U. of Iowa.

She has worked as a speech clinician at Indiana university at Bloomington in 1939-40. She taught in high schools in New Mexico and Nebraska. At Peru, Nebraska, college in 1941-42, she taught speech. She will fill the post vacated by Miss Gunilla Oppegaard.

'OPRY HOUSE' TO BE STAGED OCTOBER 15

One of the first homecoming activities will be the all-student Opry House' talent show. The show will be staged in the college auditorium, Sunday, Oct. 15.

The stunts will be around the theme, "United Nations," will depict scenes from the national life of the various united nations, and will also include views of our American home front.

Twelve skits are already entered in competition for the $50 dollars awarded in three prizes to the most original and entertaining skit. Skits are to be limited to ten minutes in order to give all the organizations a chance in the hour and a half show. Somehow, impartial judges from down town will choose the winning three skits, and the winners will be announced at the homecoming banquet.

LEAGUERS HOLD FALL RALLY

The Cedar Valley Federation of Lutheran Leagues held a fall rally at St. Paul's church in Waverly on Oct. 3rd, with about 150 Lutheran leaguers registering from Waverly, Readlyn, Janesville, Waterloo, Tripoli, Cedar Falls, Dunkerton, Independence, Bremen, Remington, Denver, Wartburg, Parkersburg, Greene, Kesley, Hampton, La Porte City and Allison.

The convention opened with divine services at 10:8 a. m. at which time the local pastor, Rev. O. Fangmeyer spoke on the convention theme, "Strengthen." Devotional session began at 11:8 a. m. and was followed by lunch at noon.

An executive meeting preceded the business meeting which began to order at 1:30 p.m. Edwin Neumann of St. Paul's church served as vice president to succeed John Fuchs who graduated from college. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and the financial report was given by Miss Dorothy Hinrichsen, secretary-treasurer. Delegates to the Wartburg college Luther League convention highlights were discussed by Genevra Fuchs, convention president, and Robert Pape of Waterloo.

During the afternoon, various reports of the federation's special tasks or skits portraying the different phases of Luther League work. Included were the new organizational set-up of the Luther Leagues, the present work of the service secretary, how the Y-Fly is used, and a skit on the literature department of the league. The Wartburg leaguers presented a skit showing the right and the wrong way of presenting topics and leading discussions. Alice Mae Kruse was solo, 'Wherever You Are.'

A recreational program under the leadership of Mr. Fruehling preceded the evening session at which Edwin Neumann served as toastmaster. Highlight of the banquet was the talk given by Rev. Robin of Cedar Falls on "Paths to Peace." He made leaguers feel that personal consecration is essential to a Christian's own way of life. "Christianity is not a matter of not will-power, but of joyful satisfaction of knowing that a way has been won for Savior, Group singing, and interesting numbers by several leaguers added in making the banquet a great success.

He is taking pre-medical courses here and plans to major in German and hopes also to major in Chemistry. As to sports, Herman likes bowling, football, baseball and swimming.

Herman asked what his first impression was of this country, he answered, "Pretty cities and I still prefers the deep South because of the scenic beauty." Herman in which he grew up, and most of all because of a certain Texas "somebody"—a beautiful, green-eyed blonde—he will return.

Another student coming from a entirely different direction is Bruno Green, freshman, from Cheyenne, Wyoming, where he attended Colorado State College of Education at Greeley, Colorado. He is also a graduate of the Rangely high school and the Rangely Junior college. Bruno is a junior at the college here, and is majoring in Biology. He is also musically inclined, especially with the guitar and organ.

When asked what he thought of school, Lowell said that Wartburg tops them all. The spirit of Wartburg, not the Freshmen, but the students were among Lowell's first impressions.

Montague Paints Vivid Picture of Far North

By Elsa Schatf

Waverly was honored last Monday evening, Oct. 4, to hear Mr. Harry Montague who spoke on the Arctic Frontiers. Mr. Montague, who is known as the friend of "Monty of the Mounties," was a Royal Canadian Mounties for six years during which time he served on Aerial duty.

During his speech, Mr. Montague took the audience on an imaginary trip through the Yukon, Alaska and Canada. He told of the beauty of the country, of the many deposits of minerals and oil are to be found. At the rate of our present consumption of minerals the United States supply will last only twenty-seven more years.

Great herds of caribou roam the territory and make one wonder if there is really a shortage of food. One vivid example of the great abundance of food Mr. Montague was that just one herd of caribou was large enough to keep the packing houses in Chicago and Kansas City busy for fifteen years. So in view of these facts, there is no reason why we should be asks in the hope and salvation of our United States and perhaps the world in future years.

Interspersed with humorous incidents of his experiences as a Mountie were descriptions of the Eskimos. Mr. Montague presented a weird picture of the Arctic regions and the beauty and weight of authority. He emphasized the importance of the Mounties in particular, to national and international relations with the United States.

A tremendous step forward was taken by the completion of the Alaskan highway, Montague observed. Besides opening the country, transporting people to the North has become easier and the goods that previously held down development are now available.

The highway was constructed in the shortest time possible, he said. The road is built through the mountains and is only a few miles to Fairbanks, Alaska. Montague told of the many difficulties in the construction came from the frozen ground and the mosquitoes. Said Montague, "And 75 per cent of the mosquitoes were female."

The Royal Canadian Mounties, or Mr. Montague pictured them, are not the dashing gallant type played up by Hollywood, but the Mountie is only a servant of the people. They are put through a three years' training period during which time they are taught how to prevent crime rather than organized punishment. They study geology, geology and even how to deliver babies. In distant and

ARMY, NAVY TESTS TO BE GIVEN NOV. 9

The second qualifying test for the army specialized training program and the navy college training program which will be given throughout the country will be administered at Wartburg college on Tuesday, Nov. 9, Dr. M. Wilhelmsen announced today. A complete set of general information regarding the examinations, classification tests may be obtained from Prof. A. A. Arndt. This form properly filled out will admit to the test. Students between the ages of 17 and 21, inclusive, who are recent high school graduates or who will be graduated by March 1, 1944, intend to take the test should be made known immediately to Prof. Arndt in order that the necessary test supplies may be ordered.

The same examination will be given by both army and navy officers. The examination is designed to test the students' ability to think quickly and intelligently in the program of college training and all qualified students are urged to take the test. At the time of the test each candidate will be given a choice of service preference, but taking the test does not obligate the candidate to enlist in the service.

The army specialized training program and the navy college program enable students to continue academic training at government expense following induction into the service forces. Upon successful completion of the prescribed courses students may receive a commission in the army or navy.

Those selected for the program will, after screening and basic military training, be sent to college. Students chosen for the navy program will be selected by the Office of Naval Officer Procurement and will be ordered directly to college. Students who attend college under either of the programs will be under military discipline on active duty and drawing army pay. All expenses, including tuition, food, books, laundry and uniforms, will be paid by the government.

STUDENTS!!!

The Wartburg Trumpet—"Official student newspaper of Wartburg College"—or is it? The work is done by a few and the criticisms come from many. Which, supposedly, makes it the voice of all the students?

But have you ever noticed how hard it is to carry out someone else's ideas? That they do it the most perfectly? Its better satisfied with their own result than with someone elses'.

At works that way on the Trumpet, too. Your ideas are very much appreciated—but how about coming down to the Trumpet office to help put them into practice—"it's your dream"—so you help to carry on from here!

THE OFFER OF THE COLLEGE . . .

To be at home in all lands and seas: to count Nature a familiar companionship: to feel the inspiration of her moods: a standard for the appreciation of other men's work and the criticism of your own: to carry within you resources for solitary in your pocket, and feel its resources behind you in whatever task you undertake: to make hosts of friends among men of your own age who are to be leaders in all walks of life: to lose yourself in generous enthusiasm and cooperate with others for common ends: to learn from them, as from students who are gentlemen, and form character under professors who are Christians: this is the offer of the College for the best four years of your life.

Whitaker's Book Featured In Daily Convocations

Readings from "We Thought We Heard the Angels Sing," by Ezra James Whitaker, comprised the first portion of the series of devotional programs for the week of September 27 to October 1. Whitaker's story of seven different families and their reactions to ocean and then rescue was based on the Biblical account of Jonah, the parable of the lilies, as told by the evangelist Luke, and Psalm 107.

Wartburg's talented pianist, Elroy Bahr, played the first of his numbers in the students' recognition program, the Andante Cantabile and Finale from Tschaikowsky's Sonata Finlandese. Selections from Mendelssohn's "Songs Without Words" were played by Lorabeth Peelman, violinist, and Robert Dreyer, junior pianist, from Spring Valley, Minn., spoke on "Knights to Remember" in the Thursday convocation. Dreyer's selections were Rachmaninoff's Prelude, Opus 23, No. 5, and Chopin's Etude, Opus 25, No. 12.

Friday, October 1st, Dr. Hillier, visiting Luke, 2:1-3 as his message. His subject was "The Necessity of Jesus' Birth." "Thou Art My God," by E. Rabinowitz, was the musical number by Helen Milne.

On Monday, Oct. 4, a travel picture of Palestine and an inspiring picture illustrating the Lord's Prayer.

Reverend Dills of South Rock spoke Wednesday. Basing his talk on Psalm 23, 24-30, and Luke 18, he emphasized the importance of the Lord in our relationship to Him and the necessity of having faith brings.

Mrs. Ruth Wolf read the "Story of the Violin Serman," by Ralph Connor. Violet Gold played a trumpet solo.

(balding the sun)—get the idea? Well, Whitaker's book is the interesting geeks around and Ruth Marie Hoffmann (43) was the lucky little lady who caught it. Fred savvy (43) hasn't been seen since and Ruth Lytton in turn—witness the sparkle of an engagement ring on her hand, of Edna Hanschter (41). Olive Dwerf (41) and Paul Hoffmann, coming Queens, has been engaged almost immediately. Just a few post Student Proxy, Ace Schaefer, who is now Proxy at Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, Ia.

Speaking of college romance, Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Hauff, of Lincoln were honored on their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary recently. A quote from the local paper: "Both Mrs. and Mrs. Hauff attended Wartburg College and their marriage September 18, 1918, in Strawberry Point with Rev. G. Fritschel officiating was the culmination of a college romance."

Bob Reese is stationed at Fairmont, Florida. The former Waverlyite likes the sweet life and writes that he misses Dale Wulf there. Most Wartburgers will remember Reese as the fellow who was awarded ten dollars in three bucks in the last issue of the Western Union game to give the Knights a lift.

UPPERCLASSMEN GO CLASSY; FORM SORORITY

By Darlene Brandt

Do you remember that common, everyday, ordinary-looking house on the corner of Third Avenue and Eighth Street, which was known as the Sorority house? Well, within the past four or five days, that abode has taken on more significance. As it hasn't been painted recently and still remains a good celebrities. It has (of all things) formed a sorority and named it Sorority House.

Dr. Fritschel dug deep into the Greek classics for words, and finally came up with Delta Mu Sorority. Now the former Sorority House is the Delta Mu Sorority House. Get it straight now. Delta Mu Sorority House.

As for the sorority itself, under the able direction of Fern Gerlach, as president, Betty Hanson, as vice president and Jean Dreweke, chief secretary-treasurer, its purposes are: To promote friendship. The organization is exclusive for junior and senior girls only. Fifteen charter members have been drafted and will be pledged at a later date.

With the event of a sorority to Wartburg, who can tell what the future holds in store for us!

Is My Face Red?

In Dr. Hillier's face red: Our physiology prof. had us take a couple if bar-makers from the adjacent bar in Elsa and he didn't have any defense!

It started when Hillier, with intense glee, found an opportunity to inform the Chem making fellows that that the word "chemistry" was derived from Cham or Ham, the founder of the crypto race. Hence, the word meant the "Black art".

The challenge was immediately met by the English: sabbatoth, who poured forth a stream of words that even Hillier, himself, had proved that Dr. Hillier had overlooked the point.

Next class period, Al dissected the manuscript and that Dr. Hillier had about forgotten of its word. Al finished quoting Webster. Doc shuffled his feet and blushed but Martin read on. After Dewey Rhoten of Chemistry was heard from, Hillier grew red and his hands drop into his pockets and turned in disgust. Somehow—there was one more authority to be quoted—and as the encyclopedia Britannica declared forever any connection between Wyandotte and Ham, Hillier gave up and only laughed—as well he might for he'd been had!

Hillier got his revenge in the classes ever again that the word chemistry was derived from Ham.

And did a true derivation—is from the Greek chyma, meaning to pour, or from Chem—the land of Egypt—and means the "Land of the Egyptian country."

P. S. He still the black art. Doc says!

A dozen happy Rovers showed themselves in fine good form last Thursday night, Sept. 30, with their first picnic of the year. Miss Smith built a roaring fire in the fireplace and the group, after supper, with the girls gathered around and opened conversation. The girls had outdone themselves in the line of delicious eats and the boys showed their appreciation by heartily thanking out on a mouthful per, after a hearty round, shouting "Lucky, Lucky. Want more!" Then the business session was breathless with suspense and turned speedy and quiet. That's all she said in the show.

Dramatists Exhibit Genius

New members of the Dramatics club had to prove their worth on initiation on Friday, Sept. 24, by acting out famous scenes from famous dramas—including that famous tragedy, "Little Red Riding Hood." Evelyn Klatt proved to be a lovely heroine among so many wolves, while Marvel Ann Ackerman, who really frightened me to bed last night, was chosen Jack Meyer in the role of her grandmother, the wonderful Rose really frightened! He even frightened the wolf, when Little Red scolds you have grandmother!) Del Becker ably directed the Thespians in their initial production.

Then the fun began when each member had to depict a scene from a famous movie. Loretta Baumgartner was real good calculating in her role as the wife in "Little Women." And everyone did help in the aisles when Jack Meyer and Naomi Bichert gave a scene from "Of Mice and Men." Who will ever forget Lois saying, "Rabbits—oh rabbits nice soft furry rabbits. Ah I used to rabbits." But grandmother, what long ears you have!

The Wartburg players are well equipped to give Dr's story, "Gone With the Wind," because it has Evelyn Scarlett O'Hara in Jean Dreweke Hahn. And what does "Gone With the Wind" need besides Scarlett O'Hara? Margaret also played one of the roles in "Russian Comedy with Marvin Ackerman directing and he turned out to be a regular Ivan the Terrible and Joseph Stalin rolled into one.

Lowell Green, that Greeley Kid, showed us what it feels like to be all alone in a room in which the waiters is slowly rising—and Evelyn Klatt and Naomi Bichert's show by running out on a mouthful per, after a hearty round, shouting "Lucky, Lucky. Want more!" Then the business session was breathless with suspense and turned speedy and quiet. That's all she said in the show.

Students Contribute Ideas, Criticisms to Trumpet

What do you read first in the Trumpet? What part of the paper interests you most? Do you think the Trumpet is a good newspaper? Do you think it lacks anything, what are your suggestions? These are some of the questions asked the Wartburg student body in this week's student poll. Here are the answers:

Lorraine Thorson: I usually read the front page first and then the sports page. Yes, I think the Trumpet is a pretty good college newspaper.

Wallace Becker: I usually read the "gossip column" first; that and sports are the most interesting things to me. Yes, it's a pretty good paper.

Rita Sinjin: Usually the gossip first, but I like all of it! It's a good paper.

Joan Gold: I think I read the front page first, especially news about future events. Yes I think it's a complete college paper.

Lowell Koch: Sports come first I like to read about future events. I think the Trumpet lacks spirit; I can't explain it exactly but there is something missing along this line.

Margeret Herron: I like to read the gossip first, and I like the rest of the paper too. I think the paper is O. K.

Arlene Boess: I like the gossip about the students, and I like everything in general. Yes, I think it's a complete paper.

Paul Keller and George Reinke, Inc. We like features best because they are most typical of college life. We think it needs more features, better editorials, editorials that mean something, fearless editorials, it should have some kind of a program, a goal, give the students something to work for. We think the fault lies in both the writing and the censoring. Editorials and features should have more lasting interest. (Wow!) We think the sports page is good. (Ed. note: Got your story in yet, George?)

Vic Gold: I think the first paper this year was better than those that came out last year. I think the paper is doing a good job of being non-commital. Editorials could be improved, generally speaking.

John Gaede: Social activities interest me most. Could use more pictures, not so many boring editorials. I think the paper's policy is rather definite.

Bob Drewes: First I look to see what date it is, to be sure it is the latest paper. I like the sports page most. I think the gossip column could be improved, but I don't know exactly how. I think the paper carries out the students' wishes rather well and I think the publicity is good in the Trumpet.

Evelyn Weichman: I read the front page first and then the social news. Yes, it is a good college paper. I think it could use a few jokes in each edition.

As you can see the opinions are varied and the suggestions are many. The Trumpet staff promises to work on these suggestions, because remember, the Trumpet is "The Student's Newspaper."

Merry Men of North Hall

Last issue we defined the Ambassador as a MAN (!). But the meaning of the word has such a vague impression in Grossman Hall that we will publish a poem written by The North Hall Poet of last year, Dick Liecher, and describing the happenings of a quiet day within those sacred walls.

North Hall Study Hours

'Tis an ordinary night in old North Hall,
A bridge game is going behind yonder wall.
Meatbook is sleeping, the more to be fit
To cope with his math and old English Lit.
When shattering the silence there comes such a yell.

Tuff sticks his head out and says, "What the duce."
A glance at Hook's shoe yields a good explanation—
A successful hot-root caused that situation.

Darneuer and Leicher, those two navy boys,
Have started to learn to help save our convoys;
For in the end room of that humble abode.
They're learning to send and receive the Morse code.
Another loud crash and a jubilant roar,
That's just Tex's way of op'ning a door.
And Everett Hagemann, the boy we admire,
Is noisily wrestling with poor Elmer Beyer.

Now lest you should think that North Hallers don't study,
I'll explain here and now to you, everybody.
We find there is time to work and to play,
And a little of both is done every day.
Our theory is this, and I speak for my pards,
Don't let any school work conflict with the cards.

One of the many Ambassadors now in the navy, Dick Leicher, is the author of this little bit of verse. Dick hails from Loganville, Wisconsin, and is now studying under the navy V-12 set-up at the University of Wisconsin. Dick gets his first leave in a few weeks and expects to be on the campus over the weekend.

Dick's room mate, Carl Stubenvoll, was the center on the seminary's tough football team.

Another former Ambassador, Ralph Damman, from Palmer, Kansas, left the campus early this week for the army. Ralph was one of the best potato peelers Wartburg ever had—but here's hoping the army wont find out about it! He was a good North Haller and a good Wartburger and his absence will be felt.

We'll try the cases justly
And give the kids the gong.

We're glad to see you, Judgie,
You're looking spry I'd say.
What have you on the menu—
Shall we get the freshmen out of the way?

The Judge:
The court shall come to order,
Let's all get in the mood;
Bring up the first defendant,
I'll try not to be rude!

With the reading of these immortal lines, the most solemn Kangaroo Kourt convened for its yearly hearing of the cases of our lowly freshmen in their failure to conform with the ancient customs and laws held by our predecessors in these stately halls of learning.

The Right Honorable Judge Reinke, charming in his robe of black trimmed in red, presided over the prosecuting attorney, the jurors, the defendants, and the spectators most capably. Attorney Meyer did his best to confuse the freshmen and remain alert to the case (not defendant) at hand. The jury—ah, yes, was a composite of those rhythmical gentlemen, Wieland and Cronrath, the "traitor-to-the-cause" freshie representative Rath, the fairer sex, represented by those hillbilly maidens both with the letter "H" for last names, and last but not least, the little prodigy, the brain child, the quizz kid himself—but he acted like a moron — Keller. Mansur was stationed beside the judge to impress the defendants with his physique and maintain law and order.

Rath, being convicted for cooperating too well, obeying all the rules, aiding in the prosecution of other freshies, and of being Red's brother, favored the audience with two selections at the piano. Gaede and Panko participated in an interesting and profitable shoe shining contest. Leland Bunge, in a blanket, had to warn the townspeople that the Indians were coming and almost ran into a murderer. Hanselman displayed previously unknown vocal talents in his rendition of the popular "Pistol Packin' Mamma." Little Peter proposed so beautifully in German—so-called—and was readily accepted by Barb. Wonder if she's changed her mind now? Conrad Ide was sentenced in absentia to wake the waiters for one week, and performed this unpleasant task faithfully. Yet to come is our baby buggy parade with John riding and Mary furnishing the manpower.

As Keller said: Ide's being sentenced in absentia was the second worst thing that could have happened to him—being at Kourt was the worst.

Freshies Vote "All-Male" Ticket

Four freshman boys came out with flying colors Friday noon at the first meeting of the 1943 freshman class, as the "greenies" voted a solid male ticket. Edward Fritschel was elected to the presidency, Walt Rath to the vice-presidency, Leland Bunge to the treasurer's position, and John Gaede was elected secretary. The newly elected officers are beginning plans for the freshman contribution to the homeco[...]tivities in the form of a skit for stunt night and a float for the parade.

Have a "Coke" = Come, be blessed and be happy

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

. . . from Idaho to Iceland

Have a "Coke", says the American soldier in Iceland, and in three words he has made a friend. It works in Reykjavik as it does in Rochester. 'Round the globe Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the ice-breaker between kindly-minded strangers.

Behind The Varsity

by Don Loots

Ah for the life of a sports reporter! The easiest position on the Trumpet staff—we were told—any other year, perhaps. The editor of this column last year closed up by hoping that there would be so much sports this year that the editor would need 4 or 5 assistants. That was last year. Things have changed though. The assistants (5 ambitious freshmen) are ready to work but there is nothing to report. Those freshmen will get their chance in the near future, though!

We've heard rumors and false reports from supposedly reliable sources but to date nothing has materialized. Usually we could tell you about the progress of the varsity in the Iowa Conference but we can only discuss last year's team now. At this time last year, Wartburg was one of seven undefeated, untied, and unscored-upon college teams in the United States.

Maybe that's one of the reasons why the students are so anxious to keep football. Our diamond jubilee football team certainly helped put Wartburg on the map! We feel that there was more athletic talent on the campus last year than at any time in the history of the school. The armed forces took most of them but they'll be back after the war, and don't forget our new gym isn't far in the future. The executive committee met Wednesday with the architect to formulate plans. The immediate problem now is finances, and no building will be started until after the war. Here's hoping that our next championship football team will play in a new stadium!

The inability to get games with other schools isn't stopping football here, though. In the second regular intramural game Luther Cronrath's Army team whipped Drewes' Navy eleven 11-0. Lowell Koch sparked the winners and was responsible for all the scoring. He intercepted one pass and ran 30 yards for one tally and then another pass to Hanselman for another. Sandy and Herman Mansur looked best for the losers.

This is as good a place as any to give a little credit to Doc Hertel, our new athletic director. Doc is a busy man but he's been doing a good job in keeping the intramural program functioning smoothly. It wasn't the athletic council's fault that we didn't have any games. They wrote or phoned to nearly every college in the vicinity. A game with Rosie's Swedes of Custavus Adolphus was almost arranged but it fell through at the last minute.

Don't say we didn't tell you if an outside college team of some sort plays here for homecoming. Anything can happen this year and the homecoming athletic committee is still trying. We'll go out on the limb a little farther and pick the Knights to whip T. C.

With the enthusiasm and spirit that the boys have we don't see how they can miss. Maybe the score won't be 35-0 but Hertel has enough talent to turn out a mighty fine team. That game will probably be the last chance for many of the fellows to play college football. We feel sure that they won't miss this opportunity to give Wartburg it's third straight homecoming victory.

Amazons Take Over Football Tactics

If you should glance out of the window one of these warm, fall days, chances are you would spot a group of blue shorted, shin-guarded girls, hockey sticks in hand, marching—the left, Wright kind—out to the field to undergo an exciting half hour of bumping heads, smoshing thumbs, and all but beating each other's little brains out—which incidentally is a foul—in a vain attempt to drive the ball through the other side's goal. Of course, the game—field hockey—is played on the same kind of field that the boys play football on—so that might account for the similarity of tactics!

Sides are lined up, and positions are then granted—lucky goalie— if she has a genial fullback they can discuss the various courses they take, etc.—ah—mostly, etc!

But pity the poor fullbacks and forwards. They have to run around the field all the time looking as if they were really accomplishing something.

Usually at least one goal is made—much to the disgrace of the other team, and then the "Female Commandos" break ranks and "un-lax" a bit. The march back to the gym reminds one strongly of a "strength through joy" hike.

But the girls console themselves in the fact that they have successfully pulled through another death-defying venture ond still have Life—although a few of their members may be somewhat mangled—Liberty (until the next gym period) and comparative Happiness.

ALLEN WITH WOLVERINES

Headlines in the Trumpet a year ago today read: "Allen scores all points in Knight's Victory." This followed the Knight 19-0 victory over the Penn Quakers and referred to the Wartburg freshman left half, Dillman Allen. The local Independent described him as "one of the bardest running backs we have seen for some time." Baldy scored all of the Knights' points thaat night. The week following he threw a touchdown pass to his brother, Elgin to give the Knights a 7-0 win over Buena Vista.

In the 35-0 homecoming win over Western Union, Baldy scored once, threw two touchdown passes and lateraled to "Tuffy" Obenauer who ran 60 yards for another tally. He closed by scoring against Upper Iowa and Dubuque bringing his individual scoring total to 41 points.

When the All-Conference teams were picked, Baldy Allen was named as a defensive back, all-around back running back, and as punter and place kicker. What ese is a good back supposed to do?

Baldy enlisted in the navy V-12 and was sent to Farragut, Idaho, for his basic training. He went to the U. of Wisconsin recently for advance instruction in radio. After a few weeks of practice with the Wisconsin varsity, Coach Harry Stuhldreher was so well pleased with his work that he named him to the traveling squad which made the trip to Iowa City Saturday.

Allen didn't see action against the Hawks but will get his chance as soon as he becomes more familiar with the Wisconsin style of play. He is the only Iowan on the Wolverine squad.

SENIOR SNAPSHOTS

Arnold Raabe

Another "Log Cabin President." but this is on the up-and-up. Arnold was born in a log cabin on a farm in Wilton, Wis.

Raabe has led an active life, as most form boys have. While still in his tender years, he was a fence-post splitter and a logger extraordinary. From this period on Raabe has been a transient. He has labored in the North Dakota harvest fields, topped beets in Idaho, picked potatoes in the picturesque Red River Valley. Last summer he even wheeled cement in an army camp.

Finally, when the wanderlust was out of his blood, Arnold decided he would like to go to college. Wartburg has never been sorry that he came. During the time in which he has been here he has been active in many campus activities. Last year he was a Dramatics Club Award Winner and received second prize in the Creetive Writing Contest. However the high-light of his college career came when he was elected Student Prexy last spring.

He also has hobbies, namely hunting and fishing. And as if this isn't enough, he still has time for an occasional "bull session." Take my word for it, girls, he's a real he-man, and he hasn't been taken. (Yet!)

Navy Whips Army 7-0

The 1943 Knights—putting the enthusiasm of the real thing into touch football. The Navy team now has two victories to the army's one. Paul Keller threw the winning touchdown pass to Hans Sandrock, who carried its across the goal to score. This team-work was repeated a few seconds later to clinch the extra point.

Valuable Yo-Yo Lost By Wartburg Golfers

Hanselman Also Reported Missing.

(By "Ebba")

I'm beginning to wonder just what golf is good for. You swing a club at a little white ball and then if you're lucky the pellet will dribble along a few feet and remain on the fairway. But confidentially I haven't seen many lucky Wartburgers. Why, the gophers that live in the underbrush and shrubbery on the other side of the railroad tracks are so scared of the Wartburg hooks and slices, that they've posted lookouts to watch for the oncoming Knights. We finally held a board meeting with the gophers last night and we agreed to wear green caps so they'd have ample warning to dive for their holes.

Jack (Spoon) Meyer—we're referring to spoon—the golfing terminology, and not in the general romanbic sense—talks the best game of all—Sandy seems to knock off a few strokes on every round, and if he keeps up his present rapidity, why by day after tomorrow he'll be able to circumnavigate the entire 9 holes in two drives and a left handed putt.

George has tossed his clubs away and finds he can get a better score if he throws the ball (these are his drives) and kicks the ball when he gets on the greens—these he calls his putts. He made par on the third hole the other day.

John Keller makes Doris go out and look for balls while he and George play—Verily, she takes a beating, but not half as bad as Wallace Becker's golf clubs!

Shorty Sailor has just changed grips for the fourth time and is now looking for the master hold of all—knowing Shorty, we'll wager he knows just how hard to squeeze—the golf stick!

Gaede and Swenson really make a twosome—they spend the first half of the afternoon looking for tees and the last half for the brand new U. S. Nobby that Sandy lost the previous afternoon. But the best golfer by for is none other than Ronald "Hook" Hanselman. Yesterday as we were making the rounds we spotted something moving in the tall weeds—we whipped out our driver and slowly sneaked up on the ferocious beast. Imagine our surprise when we found "Hook" Hanselman on his hands and knees groping for a lost ball! He told us that he had rushed into the middle of the weeds. The weeds were taller than "Hook" was—and be wandered around in a circle. My, was "Hook" glad to see us! He felt pretty bad about losing his golf ball so we gave him a yo-yo that he could play with. "Hook" in turn carried our hags (canvas—lest you evil minded boys misunderstand)! Hook became so engrossed in his yo-yo that he wandered into a sand trap and hasn't been seen since. We're not worried about "Hook" Hanselman, but what are we going to do during the long winter months without our yo-yo?

PASS THE BISCUITS, Miranda!

(Why Jim only gets to work late twice a week to wash table cloths instead of his usual three times)

When Miss Smith walked into the dining club and saw bread being thrown from one end of the table to the other, and long, gangling arms reaching half way down the table for the catsup bottle, she began thinking about making a change in the eating habits of some of Wartburg's diners. Then when one day she timed a meal and found that the students were eating in four minutes flat, literally eating without chewing, she was sure there was room for improvement.

The result of these observations is the "Hostess" or family plan of serving food. Just like at home when Pa sat at one end of the table ond carved the meat and passed the portions out to eoch of the children; of course no one got meat until he had eaten three bowls of soup!

The new plan goes something like this. One student from each table is picked as the server or hostess. He or she sits at the end of the table nearest the aisle and from there she serves the food as evenly and as carefully os possible. This not only assures all students of getting their share, but it prevents the spilling of the valuable edibles on the table cloths, that Jim works so hard to keep clean.

The plan is of course in its trial stage ond there is still room for improvement. Some of the students are compleining about not getting enough food, some say it's too slow, some say it's too much work for the hostess, but with time it should improve a great deal and become belpful to those students who want to increase their efficiency as diners.

Seniors Gorge at Melon Feast

By George Reinke

If anyone wonders why Doc Hertel is so popular with the senior class, the answer is watermelon. The seniors, noted for their ravenous appetites, were invited to a watermelon feed by Doc on Sunday, September 26, and for once in a lifetime got their fill of watermelon. The Sunday was a perfect Indian summer evening and thanks to Carl Feliger and his station wagon we found a secluded spot on the banks of the Cedar River. In order to develop our appetites to the highest degree, we engaged in some strenuous exercise by playing badminton and croquet. The badminton players did more arguing over boundaries than anything else, and it is still doubtful whether Helena Begalske's side won by points or rebuttals. In croquet, Bonnie Culberison was unbeatable even though her opponents pulled up the hoops in an effort to defeat her.

The feed bag consisted of sandwiches, popcorn, cokes, cookies and the piece de resistance—watermelon! We literally gorged ourselves. Hanging over the river bank we spit seeds for at least an hour. It is reported that melon rinds are still flooting over the spillway.

We topped the evening off with marshmallows and a sing-fest around a bonfire. When darkness settled we traveled homeward, tired, but stuffed.

P. S.—It is rumored thot no senior got much sleep that night.

BONER OF THE WEEK

Neal Norton Hilton III, Wartburg's tranquil intravert, makes a practice of proving what the professors say and he likes to be right. In Greek class when Dr. Haefner made the statement, "The word YOU is never found in the nominative case in the Bible," Neal asked very bluntly, "Are you sure of that?" "Yes," returned Dr. Haefner without hesitation. The class roared, Dr. Haefner looked at Neal, Neal looked ot the floor and didn't say a word! Do you read the Bible, Neal?
